GFE organised the African stands at Hannover's EXPO 2000, opened by German Chancellor Gerhard Schröder

GFE Chairman Ulrich Daldrup holds numerous doctorates and was economic advisor to the Government of Morocco before founding his own company

Global consultancy from one source

GFE Worldwide Consulting GmbH is an independent consulting company with a permanent staff of only 50, but with prestigious projects on all continents. With more than 20 years of experience in over 50 countries, GFE provides consultancy to governments, ministries and the private sector. Indeed, the company has accomplished such different projects as setting up the land registry in Haiti or re-structuring the Jamaican Finance Ministry. It has privatised Eastern European organisations and arranged for their alliances with German enterprises. Moreover, GFE has been involved in humanitarian projects, interim and crisis management as well as the organisation of conferences, studies and workshops. "We receive contracts from the major institutions for international cooperation and from a large number of companies in Eastern Europe, the Far East and Central America who wish to become fit for a global world," says Dr. Ulrich Daldrup, Chairman and CEO of GFE.

Founded in 1979 by Dr. Daldrup and two partners, GFE saw its major breakthrough in 1993, when it acquired Kreditanstalt für Wiederaufbau as a customer. Today, Dr. Daldrup is the company's only chairman – and the cornerstone of its success. He was not only economic advisor to the Government of Morocco, but also acted as the mayor of Aachen from 1994 to 1999. Thanks to numerous activities in political as well as economic associations, the chairman boasts an excellent network of contacts.

Little wonder, therefore, that GFE's reference list reads like the Who's Who in international organisations and world politics: GTZ, the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the World Bank, UN: UNIDO, UNDP, UNHCR ESCAP, and the German BMZ. The European Commission has contracted GFE since 1979 to organize an international conference for the promotion of EU - ACP industrial co-operation. Headquartered in Aachen, GFE has a subsidiary in the Netherlands and offices in Brussels, Paris,

Madrid, London, Copenhagen and in Lithuania. As all of its projects are temporary, the international consultancy specialist recruits temporary employees among freelance consultants, civil servants or businessmen. "All our staff are highly specialised, multilingual and cover almost any professional skill," adds the CEO. Having realised sales of EUR 3 million in 2002, Dr. Daldrup hastens to point out that this turnover was generated by hono- raries and therefore cannot be compared to sales in trade. With a list of accomplished projects that speaks for itself, GFE looks to the future with confidence. ■
